

Top 10 Artists by Total Revenue

The top 5 artists—Iron Maiden, U2, Metallica, Led Zeppelin, and LOST—earn significantly more than the rest. There is a sharp drop in revenue after the 5th position. Iron Maiden leads with $138.6 USD, while Eric Clapton, at the bottom, makes only $39.6. This shows that a few artists dominate total revenue, while the rest earn much less.

Top 10 Genres by Number of Tracks Sold

As shown in the bar chart, Rock is the clear winner with almost 900 purchases, while Latin follows at about half that (400). Metal and Alternative & Punk are close behind, just over 300. After that, sales drop fast, Jazz, Blues, and the rest barely cross 100, showing a huge gap between the most and least popular genres.

Number of Customers Per Country

In 2009, the USA led in both sales ($103.95) and customers, making it the strongest market.

Canada ($57.42) and Germany ($53.46) had fewer customers but solid sales, which means higher spending per customer. Brazil ($37.62) and the UK ($25.74) had the lowest sales, with fewer customers contributing less revenue.

Total sales per sale agent

This chart shows the total sales per sales agent. Jane Peacock leads with $833.04 (35.8%), followed by Margaret Park with $775.40 (33.3%), and Steve Johnson with $720.16 (30.9%). The sales are fairly balanced, but Jane Peacock has the highest contribution.
